Executive Vice President and Chief Strategy Officer
HPI, Inc.

Paul Forte is Executive Vice President and Chief Strategy Officer of HPI, Inc. Paul is an experienced leader with a passion for connecting employers directly with providers to optimize clinical and financial outcomes. Specializing in data analytics, risk profiling, and predictive modeling, he helps employers understand their health benefit spend and what initiatives can be put into place to mitigate risk before it happens. Paul also pursues market growth opportunities that advance the company's comprehensive health risk management offering.

Paul joined HPI in 2011 as Vice President of Health Strategies and Innovation to oversee an expanding Clinical Services department responsible for all facets of population health management, wellness, health coaching, and integrated data analytics – all with the purpose of improving coordination of care and reducing or stabilizing cost without compromising quality.

Prior to joining HPI, Paul gained more than 20 years' experience in clinical integration strategies, and ACO and medical home development leading initiatives to bring the efficiency of care back to the forefront of the healthcare industry. Through work with the CareGroup Occupational Health Network, Enhanced Care Initiative, and the Emblem Health High Value Medical Home Project, Paul focused on the creation, management, redesign and marketing of employee and employer programs that improve quality, efficiency, and cost transparency of care for individuals as well as employers.
