

Gerardo Zampaglione
Founder & Chief Product Officer
Aegle Capital

Gerardo Zampaglione is the founder of Aegle Capital, the first company that provides adaptive capital solutions to mitigate the volatility associated with high-cost healthcare claims. He brings a wealth of experience spanning population health, value-based care, re/insurance program design, and predictive analytics to the self-funded benefits ecosystem. He is deeply committed to transforming the healthcare space by driving innovation, improving access, and delivering better outcomes for stakeholders across the ecosystem.

Prior to founding Aegle, he led billing and population health initiatives at Epic Systems, the leading EMR vendor, and advised Fortune 500 biopharma, medical device, venture capital, and private equity firms on commercial growth strategy, due diligence, and product design through roles at boutique healthcare strategy consultancies. He is a graduate of the Wharton School and Tufts University, and resides in Philadelphia, PA, with his wife, Sofia, and his two dogs.
